

Webster Walker, principal manager in Martin Bros.' spoke factory at Powhatan, was drawn on the shaft of the balance wheel while taking off a belt that run from the shaft to a grind stone and was wound to the shaft by the belt and instantly crushed to death. Mr. Walker lived at Vernon, Ind.

Webster Walker death reported, 6-14-1886

Clipped By:

goodsonlibrary
Thu, Oct 17, 2019